1. About ASDAN

ASDAN is an education charity and awarding organisation providing regulated qualifications and non-regulated courses to engage, elevate and empower learners with diverse needs.

ASDAN creates accessible, high quality and impactful courses, programmes and qualifications, and works with partner educators to foster the personal, social and work-related abilities of learners.

Personal, social, and work-related skills are essential for all learners as they:

- support academic and vocational learning
- help learners re-engage in their education
- enable the acquisition of knowledge and skills for work and service
- prepare learners for entry-level work
- equip learners to live well and make full use of their abilities

ASDAN believes that learners should have the opportunity to discover, develop and make use of their abilities to affirm their identities, contribute to society, and challenge educational and social inequalities.

ASDAN supports a wide variety of settings across the UK and internationally, including mainstream and special schools, further education colleges, pupil referral units, local authorities, and community organisations. See more at: asdan.org.uk

2. Qualification overview

2.1 Qualification suite aim

ASDAN's Personal and Social Development (PSD) qualifications are available at five levels: Entry 1, Entry 2, Entry 3, Level 1 and Level 2.

The versions of these qualifications in this specification are accredited by Ofqual and CCEA, and listed in England and Northern Ireland in the Register of Regulated Qualifications.

ASDAN's qualifications in Personal and Social Development embrace personal, social, health, citizenship and digital education, and enable learners to develop skills to prepare them for independence and working life. The PSD qualifications offer imaginative ways of supporting learners in becoming confident individuals, who are physically, emotionally and socially healthy, and who are able to make a positive contribution to society as responsible citizens. The qualifications support learners to embrace change, to manage risk and their own wellbeing, while also introducing them to new activities and personal challenges.

2.2 Who are these qualifications for?

The qualifications are available for learners aged 14 upwards and can be taught in schools, colleges, residential centres, training provision, PRUs, secure units and other local authority and independent settings.

2.3 Entry requirements

There are no entry requirements for any of the ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications.

Learners must be aged 14 or over at the time of award.

Centres should carry out effective initial assessment of learners to determine which level and size qualification should be achievable prior to registering each learner for the chosen qualification. Centres should determine the appropriateness of the content of chosen units for learners prior to delivery.

2.4 Progression opportunities

Learners could progress to:

- an ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualification at a higher level or of a larger size
- another ASDAN qualification that develops additional skills at the same or a higher level eg Personal Effectiveness Qualifications or a Project Qualification
- education or training at a higher level with another provider (eg from school to college)
- a work placement
- employment
- an apprenticeship

3. National standards and national curricula

In England, ASDAN's Personal and Social Development Qualifications support the development of skills needed for progression within education and work. The qualifications have clear alignment with the aims and cross-curricula expectations of the National Curricula, particularly for secondary age and SEND learners, SEMH provision, Foundation Learning pathways, and alternative provision and EOTAS.

ASDAN's PSD qualifications map to:

- statutory RSHE education including, health and wellbeing, relationships and living the wider world
- SEND Code of Practice (2015) Preparing for Adulthood outcomes employment, independent living, community inclusion, and health
- Gatsby Benchmarks and careers education, especially Benchmark 1 A stable careers programme, Benchmark 3 Addressing individual learner needs, and Benchmark 6 Experiences of workplaces
- In Northern Ireland, the ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications are aligned to the Learning for Life and Work Area of Learning (Key Stages 3 and 4) and can contribute to Planning for Skills Development and Thinking Skills and Personal Capabilities (Key Stage 3). In addition, ASDAN's PSD qualifications support Ofsted's inspection framework through providing evidence of learner progression

- ASDAN's PSD qualifications map conceptually to Scotland's Curriculum for Excellence - Responsible Citizens and Effective Contributors

4. Performance points and funding

The ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications are funded in England and Northern Ireland. Performance points are available for qualifications regulated in Northern Ireland.

Centres should check the current details for funding and performance points when planning their curriculum.

Information about each qualification can be found on the Register of Regulated Qualifications¹ (for qualifications regulated by Ofqual and CCEA Regulation).

Information about funding eligibility and performance points can be found on:

- List of qualifications approved for funding² (for qualifications regulated by Ofqual)
- NIEFQAN³ (for qualifications regulated by CCEA Regulation)

5. Qualification structure (including rules of combination)

5.1 Qualification structure

To achieve an ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualification, learners must complete units to a minimum number of credits. One credit is equal to approximately 10 hours of learning (including assessment of learning).

Centres can choose a combination of units that suit the needs and preferences of their learners.

Learners may complete units at the level above or level below the qualification level where available. The minimum number of credits required at the level of the qualification must be achieved for qualification certification. It is permitted to choose a combination of units that exceed the minimum number of credits required for qualification certification. Centres should take care that the chosen combination of units does not result in a different qualification outcome than intended (eg Intended outcome Entry 2 Certificate in PSD, if the learner achieves 8 credits at Entry 2 and a further 6 credits at Entry 3 they will be awarded Entry 3 Award in PSD with credit certification of the Entry 2 units.) Where centres are unsure about the likely outcome based on a specific combination of units, they should contact info@asdan.org.uk for further guidance.

If a learner does not achieve sufficient credits to gain a qualification, certification will be given for the units achieved.

7. Recognition of prior learning (RPL)

Prior achievement of some ASDAN's accredited programmes and qualifications may mean that a learner has already evidenced achievement of some learning outcomes from units in these qualifications and does not need to repeat that learning.

Recognition of prior learning is only eligible for learning achieved within the three years prior to the qualification quality assurance date.

Where a learner has achieved a unit with credit with another awarding organisation, and the unit has the same Ofqual unit reference as the unit in an ASDAN Personal and Social Development qualification, ASDAN will allow credit to be transferred to the ASDAN qualification.

In all instances where achievement is claimed through recognition of prior learning, or credit transfer centres are responsible for carrying out sufficient and effective assessment and internal quality assurance checks, and for following the correct procedure as detailed in the ASDAN Recognition of Prior Learning policy and procedure¹.

Award of all units and qualifications is dependent on successful external quality assurance sampling.

The process of credit transfer allows learners to use units awarded in the context of one qualification towards achievement of another qualification.

The following units can be used for credit transfer for ASDAN's Personal and Social Development qualifications:

ASDAN Level 2 Award/ Certificate in Personal and Social Development	There are no equivalencies or exemptions for units in the Level 2 Award/Certificate in Personal and Social Development

8. Centre requirements

Centres must be an approved member with ASDAN and will need to request approval for the Personal and Social Development suite of qualifications before delivering these qualifications, as detailed in the ASDAN Centre policy and procedure guide.

It is the centre's responsibility to ensure that all staff involved in the delivery, assessment and internal quality assurance of ASDAN qualifications meet ASDAN's requirements for these roles, including attending appropriate training, as set out in this document.

Centres offering ASDAN qualifications must adhere to the requirements set out in the ASDAN Agreement.

Centres that do not adhere to the ASDAN Agreement may have their approval withdrawn for the Personal and Social Development Qualifications, or may have another type of sanction applied as set out in the ASDAN Sanctions policy and procedure.¹

9. Delivery

Centres are expected to spend time developing learners' understanding of and competence in the relevant knowledge and skills prior to carrying out assessment. ASDAN provides a range of resources to support the teaching, learning and assessment of its qualifications, including training and a qualification delivery guide. These resources are available to approved centres via the Course resources area of the ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications webpage.²

The number of Guided Learning Hours (GLH) of a unit or qualification provides an indication of the amount of time that a learner is being taught or supervised by the centre in relation to that unit or qualification. GLH include assessment, where assessment is carried out directly by a centre-based assessor or tutor. The Total Qualification Time (TQT) of a unit or qualification is the GLH plus the estimated number of hours a learner will spend carrying out work related to the unit or qualification independently.

Total Qualification Time includes time needed for study that is directed by an assessor or tutor but not carried out under their direct supervision.

ASDAN's Personal and Social Development Qualifications are designed so that they can be delivered to a group of learners working towards different levels and sizes of qualification at the same time. Centre staff with responsibility for delivering and assessing the qualifications must plan teaching, learning and assessment that is effectively differentiated for their learners.

10. Assessment

Unless otherwise stipulated in the unit specification, centres may develop their own assessment activities. Centres must follow ASDAN's guidance for the development of assessment activities.

Assessment activities should be engaging for learners, must be accessible, and enable them to produce evidence that is valid, current, and sufficient. In addition, assessment activities must allow assessors and internal and external quality assurers, to make a reliable decision regarding the learner's achievement of the referenced criteria. Centres should refer to the ASDAN Assessment Planning Guidance¹.

ASDAN provides resources developed to support learners to generate appropriate evidence for some units and criteria. These resources are available via the Course resources area of the ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications webpage².

Learners must produce a portfolio of evidence which is assessed by the centre. A portfolio, and the evidence within it, can be physical or digital. There must be explicit evidence, within the portfolio, to demonstrate achievement of all criteria at the standard required.

Learners must be given adequate opportunity to make any necessary amendments or additions to evidence where assessment identifies that evidence does not yet meet the required standard. Resubmitted and additional evidence must be assessed.

Ofqual defines a reasonable adjustment to be an adjustment made to an assessment for a qualification to enable a learner to demonstrate their knowledge, skills and understanding to the levels of attainment required by the specification for that qualification (Ofqual, September 2023). This ensures that learners have equitable access to assessment. Reasonable adjustments to assessment can be applied to the ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications. Centres must refer to the ASDAN Reasonable Adjustments to Assessment Policy and Procedure³

Records of assessment planning and assessment judgements must be produced and retained by the centre and made available for internal and external quality assurance, with associated evidence of learner achievement. Centres should refer to the ASDAN Retention of Assessment Materials Policy⁴ for guidance on how long samples of portfolios, including records of assessment and internal quality assurance, should be kept.

Assessment judgements must be clearly and accurately recorded, for example within the unit assessment booklet. Assessment records should be completed, signed and dated (physically or digitally) by the assessor, learner and (where sampled) the internal quality assurer when complete, and included in the portfolio of evidence.

11. Internal quality assurance

Internal quality assurance is an ongoing process which supports the accurate awarding of a qualification and upholds the integrity of that qualification.

Centres must carry out sufficient and effective internal quality assurance, including the standardisation of assessment and sampling of assessment decisions, prior to external quality assurance sampling, to determine that assessment judgements are appropriate and to support the award of the unit or qualification.

Where internal quality assurance checks identify an inappropriate assessment judgement and where evidence does not yet meet the required standard, feedback must be given to the assessor. The learner must then be given adequate opportunity to make any necessary amendments or additions, prior to submission for re-assessment and internal quality assurance checking.

Internal quality assurance of an appropriate sample of assessed portfolio evidence must be carried out prior to external quality assurance sampling. It is not possible for ASDAN to award qualifications where internal quality assurance has not been carried out.

Centres should refer to the ASDAN Internal Quality Assurance Guidance¹ on the policies, regulations and centre guidance page* for further information.

Centres have a responsibility, through robust internal quality assurance, to identify and address any instances of potential, alleged or actual maladministration or malpractice. Centre staff with responsibility for delivery, assessment, or internal quality assurance of ASDAN qualifications must have access to the ASDAN Malpractice and Maladministration Policy and Procedure² on the policies, regulations and centre guidance page* and understand their responsibilities.

Records of internal quality assurance activities, including internal quality assurance sampling and standardisation activities. They must be produced and retained by the centre and made available, with associated learner evidence and assessment records, for external quality assurance sampling by ASDAN. Centres should refer to the ASDAN Retention of Assessment Materials Policy³ on the policies, regulations and centre guidance page* for guidance.

12. Centre assessment standards scrutiny (CASS) and external quality assurance

Centre Assessment Standards Scrutiny (CASS) refers to the checks that an awarding organisation puts in place to ensure that centre-based assessment is fit for purpose and is applied accurately and consistently by assessors.

External moderation is a check where the quality of centre-based assessment and internal quality assurance is reviewed prior to awarding, and is one of the ways that ASDAN checks the accuracy and consistency of assessment carried out by its centres. ASDAN may carry out external quality assurance sampling or observations at any point during the delivery of its qualifications.

1 Available at: asdan.org.uk/policies-regulations-and-centre-guidance

2 Available at: asdan.org.uk/policies-regulations-and-centre-guidance

3 Available at: asdan.org.uk/policies-regulations-and-centre-guidance

Where external quality assurance (EQA) activities identify that assessment and internal quality assurance (IQA) judgements are ineffective and evidence does not meet the required standard, actions will be set for the centre and ASDAN may decide not to award the relevant unit(s) and, consequently, the qualification. In the event that a unit is not passed during external quality assurance sampling, centres will be given the opportunity to address actions and resubmit the relevant unit(s) for external quality assurance sampling at a later date.

Centres must ensure that learners are given adequate opportunity to make any necessary amendments or additions to evidence where assessment identifies that evidence does not yet meet the required standard.

Centres delivering ASDAN's Personal and Social Development Qualifications for the first time must arrange an external quality assurance sampling activity during the first year of delivery, for a date when at least one unit has been completed, assessed and internally quality assured. This activity provides ASDAN with an opportunity to review the centre's delivery, assessment and IQA of these qualifications and to provide guidance and support where needed, and for the centre to discuss any aspects of the delivery, assessment and IQA of these qualifications they are unsure about.

External quality assurance sampling activities usually take place remotely, however, ASDAN reserves the right to conduct external quality assurance activities in-person or on-site where it considers this to be appropriate.

Centres must confirm the names and details of learners expected to achieve the qualification by the date set by ASDAN. When learner details are confirmed, ASDAN will provide the sample for external quality assurance.

An external quality assurance feedback report is made available to centre staff with a valid ASDAN login via the ASDAN website within 20 working days of a successfully completed external quality assurance activity taking place. In some circumstances, such as when additional information is requested, it may not be possible to release the external quality assurance feedback report within 20 working days of the scheduled activity.

Centre staff with responsibility for internally quality assuring ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications should attend an ASDAN Personal and Social Development standardisation event at least once every three years. ASDAN standardisation events are an opportunity for centre staff to stay up to date with any changes to the qualifications, to meet with other centre staff delivering and quality assuring the same qualifications, and to ensure that the standards applied in their own centre are consistent with ASDAN's expectations and the standards applied in other centres. Details of current and upcoming ASDAN training events can be found on the training page of the ASDAN website¹.

13. Enquiries and appeals

Centres must refer to the ASDAN Enquiries and Appeals Policy and Procedure² for guidance if they disagree with the outcome of an ASDAN external quality assurance activity.

¹ Available at: asdan.org.uk/training

² Available at: asdan.org.uk/policies-regulations-and-centre-guidance

14. Administration, including certification

Centres should register learners and create a cohort for an ASDAN qualification as soon as possible after starting delivery and before any assessment takes place. A course coordinator must be assigned at the point of setting up the cohort.

Centres must confirm the names and details of learners to be submitted for awarding and achievement, including the units achieved, by the deadline set by ASDAN (usually a minimum of four weeks prior to the scheduled external quality assurance sampling activity).

Centres receive an email notification that the outcome of an external quality assurance sampling activity is available. Certificates are issued to centres within 20 working days of successful award.

ASDAN reserves the right to withhold certificates under certain circumstances. Centres should refer to the ASDAN Sanctions policy and procedure¹ for information.

15. Assessor and internal quality assurer requirements

15.1 Assessor requirements

Centre staff with responsibility for delivery and assessment of ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications must engage in appropriate training, which should include Assessment for ASDAN Qualifications and relevant qualification training. In addition, assessors must have relevant knowledge and expertise in carrying out centre-based assessment.

Assessors of ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications are not required to hold a formal qualification in assessment. Centre staff with responsibility for assessment, who have no prior experience, should seek support from ASDAN if they are unsure about any aspect of the assessor role.

15.2 Internal quality assurer (IQA) requirements

Centre staff with responsibility for internal quality assurance activities of ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications must engage in appropriate ASDAN training, which should include relevant qualification training, Assessment for ASDAN Qualifications, and Internal Quality Assurance for ASDAN qualifications training, prior to carrying out any internal quality assurance activities. In addition, IQAs must have relevant knowledge and expertise in carrying out centre-based internal quality assurance.

IQAs of ASDAN Personal and Social Development Qualifications are not required to hold a formal qualification in internal quality assurance. Centre staff with responsibility for IQA, who have no prior experience, should seek support from ASDAN if they are unsure about any aspect of this role.

Centre staff with responsibility for carrying out internal quality assurance should attend an appropriate ASDAN qualification centre standardisation event at least once every three (3) years.

¹ Available at: asdan.org.uk/policies-regulations-and-centre-guidance

ASDAN issues updates and information about its qualifications on an ongoing basis. Centre staff involved in the delivery, assessment and internal quality assurance of ASDAN qualifications should check they have the correct ASDAN endorsements and contact status so that they receive these updates directly. Centres are responsible for ensuring that staff contact details on the centre's ASDAN website are kept up to date and that any communication from ASDAN is shared with appropriate people within the organisation.
